

If It Happens Here

GOSSIP OF THE LOCAL GRIDIRON

The question of who will win the game next Saturday between the "Varsity" and Aggies is one which will be the all-absorbing topic among Utah football fans the coming week. There is no use denying that the east benchers will be the favorites, but still there are many who think the Aggies will spring a surprise when they come down here to line up in the annual game for the state championship. On one side, and this is all one has to give in the case of the "Varsity," is away in the lead. The Aggies have not won a game this season against a "Varsity" team; in fact, they have not scored, while the east benchers have a record to be proud of. This fact is more liable to defeat the "Varsity," however, as overconfidence often loses football games.

The Logan Aggies are far from being a dead bunch, even if they were beaten to standstill since the season opened. Whenever a team returning from trip as badly beaten as the Aggies were are met with the reception they were given, it is safe to bet the spirit is there, and the spirit shown at that reception is a bad thing to buck up against on a football field. Imagine the "Varsity" getting a reception like that coming home with a string of four defeats. There would not be a corporal's guard at the depot to meet them, and instead of having the support of the whole town, there would be a large sized percentage of the population out buying new handles for their hammers, and a knock would start that would take all the finger out of the team for the next two seasons. Logan is certainly loyal to its football team, and it is this loyalty that will make the boys play until the last ditch when they meet the "Varsity." If it is the spirit instilled in the Aggies team at that reception that makes them a dangerous competitor for the "Varsity," and if they win it is this more than coaching and condition that will be responsible for the victory.

Up on the east bench, the overconfidence that has cost the "Varsity" dear in the last couple of years, is already beginning to manifest itself regarding the outcome of Saturday's game. Coach Madock is questioning against it, but even his daily lectures do not seem to affect some of the members of the team. Two years ago the university met the most humiliating defeat in its career for this very reason when they went down before the National Guards, and this lesson should be a warning for Saturday's game.

The showing made by the All Hallows against the West Side High school last Saturday indicates that wonders have been worked by Coach Hasset with the team. The "Varsity" has a green bunch of men under him, many who never saw a football game before this year, and who are holding their own with veterans like the West Side High school down to two scores, it shows they are going some. The West Side High school scored four touchdowns in the same time of play, but last Saturday they found a far tougher aggregation to go against. Should the All Hallows improve as fast next year, they are liable to be a strong factor in the high school championship race.

Boulder's overwhelming defeat of Denver last Saturday was another surprise in the football world. Fifty-seven points to nothing would indicate that there was something radically wrong with the Denver team. The best Boulder could do against Utah was to score a single point, and the team was hardly organized, and Denver was only beaten by a score of 12 to 0 by the east benchers. It is, therefore, plain to see that Denver is not the team it was at the opening of the season.

It is to be hoped that Boulder will not be compelled to give up its date with Stanford for Thanksgiving day. This game would settle the championship for the country west of the Missouri river without a question. Boulder has reduced the best team in the Rocky mountain country and also the strong Nebraska team. Stanford, on the other hand, is easily the champion on the Pacific coast, and the winner would have the field to itself. Both teams have played eleven games, which would make their meeting of more than passing interest in this state.

"MAN KILLER" IS A DEAD ONE

Fuller and 999 Fail to Get Up Steam.

NO RACE AND SORE CROWD

OLDFIELD, HOWEVER, GIVES A GOOD EXHIBITION.

It was another sore and disappointed crowd that gathered at Oldfield's track yesterday afternoon. Barney Oldfield and his green dragon were there and again reeled off three fast miles, but the fact that Bert Fuller and the 999 did not go against him in a match race sent a majority of the spectators home in anything but a happy frame of mind.

From the showing made by the 999 in this city in the past it would appear that the machine was fit for the scrap heap and nothing more. Fuller has been working on it for at least ten days, but as yet has been unable to accomplish anything. He did get it to go five miles yesterday before the race commenced, and then something went wrong and nothing short of a locomotive was able to move the one famous man faster.

In justice to Oldfield, however, he is not to blame for the outcome of the races. Under contract to race on Nov. 10, he was on hand with his machine prepared to race, knowing full well he would have a little trouble in winning against his former racing partner. He saw there was no chance for a race he gave a three-mile exhibition and traveled the distance in 4:25. The time was as fast as that made at Agricultural park Saturday by a few seconds. Oldfield claimed the race was not as good.

Charles Hurman, Oldfield's racing companion, gave two different exhibitions with his twenty-four-horse power touring car and went the five miles in 7:30-35 and later three miles in 4:25-35.

A stop and start race for touring cars was the other event on the programme. Three cars were entered, and starting from a standstill stopped at the end of each half mile directly under the wire, and then started forward until full speed. The car owned by Thomas Homer won the race by a dozen lengths.

FEATHERS BUSY MAKING WEIGHT

Young Corbett and Battling Nelson Next Big Fight.

DENVER BOY AFTER BRITT

SAYS HE WILL MEET JIMMY IN DECEMBER.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—Young Corbett was unable to go out on the road yesterday, as he strained one of the tendons of his right foot. The little fellow enjoyed a sun bath on the beach and entertained a large gathering of sporting men who came out to see him work.

Corbett is not having hard work reducing to 130 pounds. He is within seven pounds of the weight, and as the fight is still two weeks off he is not worrying. He hopes to beat Battling Nelson in quick order, but this clutch a battle with Jimmy Britt in December.

"Britt fought me at 130 pounds when we met before," said Young Corbett, "and he will have to fight me at that weight. He says he wants me to make 132 pounds, because he can do that weight nicely. He does not drink, smoke, or use any other terms, inasmuch as he went all over the east claiming he was the featherweight champion. In December I will go east and fight Terry McGovern. I am rounding into shape and will be in perfect fettle. I know Nelson is a tough fellow, but he has never met such a fighter as I am."

Nelson is picking up a little faster pace in his training at Larkspur. This morning he did a hill climb. He was out bright and early with Manager Ted Murphy, going up to the top of the hills. He was good, hard climb, but Murphy said: "Nelson did it without turning a feather. He does not drink, smoke, or use any other terms, it is always easy for him to get into condition. If Corbett wins it will be because he is the better man."

SHOT WILL KILL BOY

Edison P. Halstead Wounded by Accidental Discharge of a Rifle.

Edison P. Halstead was accidentally shot yesterday afternoon, and is not expected to recover. The weapon was a .22 calibre rifle, and the bullet entered the left side of the boy's face just under the eye and passed through the brain, coming out at the back of the skull.

The Halstead boy, together with Herbert Hinkle and Merle Buchanan, three close friends, went hunting. They were returning down the boulevard from Ogden canyon and were about half way along the dugway when the accident happened. The boy was sitting on a bench and sat on the right side of the cart. The Halstead boy was on the left with the rifle between his knees and the other boy sat in the middle. In some way the gun was discharged, but the companions of the injured boy did not realize what had happened.

Hinkle was driving along, thinking that the boys had discharged the gun intentionally at some object along the road. As soon as they discovered that the boy was hurt, they called for help from some persons in a rig ahead of them, and were told to get the boy home as soon as possible. The boys were taken to the Ogden hospital, where they were summoned—Smith, Forbes and Perkins, but from the first very little hope was held for the boy's recovery. The boy is a son of E. O. Halstead, a Southern Pacific engineer, and resides at 120 Twenty-second street.

The injured boy was 16 years of age. At midnight last night he was still unconscious, but had been so from the first. The physicians hold out no hope what ever for his recovery, although they say that it is possible for him to live two or three days.

Los Angeles, Nov. 10.—The Los Angeles team took both games from Portland today, making it six out of the series of seven games. ## WILL ESCHEW POLITICS.

Federation of Labor Will Turn Down Socialists.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—The headquarters of the American Federation of Labor was the scene of great activity today. Many delegates from the east and Pacific coast states arrived. Among those who registered at headquarters was W. D. Mahon of Detroit, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees. Mr. Mahon was accompanied by Rezin Orr, treasurer of the same organization.

In speaking of the work of the coming convention, Mr. Mahon said that the labor outlook was decidedly hopeful and that this would be one of the busiest sessions in the history of the federation.

Mr. Mahon spoke in very decided terms against the introduction of politics into the federation. He said that the Socialist delegates to the convention had tried a fairly early year to have to hold in the old Federal hall in this city, and as there is not a large amount of business to be transacted it is probable that the delegates will be disappointed that they would again be turned down, as were the delegates of other political parties that attempted any endorsement.
